DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 2, and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moreau et al. (US 5,000,119), and further in view of Almeda (US 6,432,029).

Moreau et al. (Moreau) discloses the claimed invention except resilient bumpers are not positively disclosed. Moreau's device comprises a plurality of stalls 33, each having shoulder bars 53 guidingly locating the shoulders of an animal 18. The animal 18 is aligned along a longitudinal axis defined from head to rump of said animal 18. The addition of a cushion member or resilient bumper is a well-known modification in a device where a body part of a mammal comes into constant contact with a metal bar or member. Almeda shows an example of the use of such resilient bumper 32, 34, and 36 as a cushioning barrier between a metal bar and a user's body. Almeda teaches that elements 32, 34, and 36 are advantageous as they absorb forces exerted on the user's body, thus enhancing comfort and preventing injury. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Moreau's milking parlor by adding resilient bumpers to shoulder bars 53 in order to enhance the comfort and prevent injury of the cow using the stall.

Art Unit: 3644

Further regarding claim 2, Almeda's resilient bumpers are considered to flex outwardly away from the longitudinal axis when the cow presses against them. Also, since Moreau's bars 53 pivot, the stall can accommodate various sized cows and permit longitudinal movement of the cows when they are in the stalls.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3-6 and 8-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 4/20/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation to combine, which was also Almeda's primary concern, is to provide comfort for a body part that will constantly come into contact with a movable metal bar or pole of a device.

Art Unit: 3644

In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Applicant is further encouraged to review newly cited references USPN 5,441,016 to Ricketts (specifically elements 174 and 312), USPN 3,183,890 to Albers (specifically elements 135, 156, 176, and 178), and USPN 1,770,450 to Bahr (specifically element 18' as described on page 2, left hand column, lns.44-49). The aforementioned references further define the state of the art with regard to providing padding to animals in treatment stalls.

In conclusion, for these and the above reasons the examiner maintains the rejections of claims 1, 2, and 7.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
